NEW LINDO LAKE PARK PLAN WILL BE SHOWN AT C. OF C. MEET

LAST HONORS ARE PAID TO LONELY LADY

TWO LAKESIDE MEN ONLY ONES PRESENT AT FUNERAL RITES

When death comes to a lonely lady of 80 years the departing one should at least have the tribute of a sigh. But Mary Ostertag, for 15 years a resident of Lakeside, almost missed getting even that. Had it not been that kind hearts beat in the breasts of R. L. ("Bob") Swearengin and of the Rev. Thomas I. Nalbach, pastor of the Community Church, the lonely lady might have gone to her last long rest "unwept, unhonored and unsung."

The two men were but slightly acquainted with the oldtime resident who lived by herself in a little home here and did not mix much. However when the pastor and "Bob" saw in a San Diego newspaper last week notice of the death of Mary Ostertag at the county hospital and saw that the funeral would be held Tuesday at the Erickson-Anderson Mortuary in La Mesa, they decided to attend.

They were the only persons present.

The old lady, it seems, had no relatives in this part of the country and few elsewhere. These latter dwelt too far away to be able to attend the funeral services. So the Rev. Mr. Nalbach took charge; Mr. Swearengin was his sole auditor save for the mortuary attendants.

But for the kindness of these two Lakeside men that lonely old lady would inded have 'crept silently to rest." Lakeside's pastor and a merchant, however, stepped in to pay her the last honors for which "the parting soul" must rely upon those who survive her. The good deed performed by those two men deserves this special mention.

Have Good Time With The Modern Woodmen

Bring a covered dish and your own service. Let's bring the holiday to a close with a whale of a fine time shown by one neighbor to another.

Postmaster Thomas F. Helm informs The Farmer that a special 3-cent stamp, printed in purple ink, will be issued Sept. 25 in honor of the 300th anniversary of the introduction of printing into the United States.

El Monte Fighter Is Knocked Out; Jailed

A gentleman from Texas who got a little too unruly at El Monte Park on Sunday evening discovered that Caretaker H. A. Vanoni can give a knock out as effective as any bestowed on fighters by Joe Louis.

The visitor had looked too long and partaken too lavishly of some drink other than water. Instead of it making him mellow he developed combativeness and, it is asserted, beat his wife and then started in on his brother-in-law.

Mr. Vanoni is not only caretaker of the park but also an officer of the law so in his offical capacity he quieted the gentleman by knocking him out with a belt buckle—a handy weapon when necessity arises.

And there certainly was necessity in this case for the man from Texas is a six-footer and weighs 250 pounds. Moreover, as Mr. Vanoni described it the visitor went "hog wild."

After he came to he was taken to the County Jail in San Diego to cool off. His trial was held on Monday and the sentence was a fine of $25 or ten days.

Caretaker Vanoni states that this was the first occurence of the kind in all the 16 years that he has been at El Monte Park.

WAR!

HITLER MOVES TO SUBDUE POLAND BY FORCE OF ARMS; SAYS THE GERMAN ARMY WILL BATTLE WITH IRON DETERMINATION

Hitler started war against Poland today, September 1st in Berlin, but yesterday according to Pacific Coast time.

At 9:15 last night a Berlin statement was heard in Lakeside over the radio. It said Hitler had declared that as Poland had rejected his terms and started border conflicts the German Army would meet force with force.

Polish territory was declared "a danger zone" because of the likelihood of military action.

"The German Army forces will conduct the battle with honor," said Hitler in his statement radioed from Berlin.

In London it was announced that the evacuation of half a million children from that city started early this morning.

It was also announced that the British Government had ordered full mobilization of all forces.

National Broadcasting Company gave out a message at 10:30 p.m. that artillery fire had been heard near the Polish-Silesian border; also large troop movements were observed

Another radiogram stated Danzig had been decreed as part of Germany.

Hitler in his proclamation declared that Poland had started frontier conflicts. "I have no other choice but to answer force with force," he said. "The German army will battle with iron determination."

A report from Warsaw says that Cracow and three other Polish cities have been bombed by German airplanes.

CARRIER APPLICATIONS WILL CLOSE TODAY

Have you made your application to enter the examination for the position of rural carrier? Everybody else in Lakeside seems to have done so. Might as well make it unanimous. Postmaster Helm states that receipt of applications will close today, Friday, Sept. 1, according to the instructions from the U. S. Civil Service Commission.

And applicants are reminded that at the examination, to be held in El Cajon on a date to be stated on admission cards later, they must furnish unmounted photographs of themselves taken within two years. Uncle Sam wants to know what his prospective rural carrier looks like.

Another thing, Uncle Sam undoubtedly will be sorry to lose the services of that faithful vetran, Ralph E. Hunt, who is soon to retire after long and meritorious work for the greatest postal department on earth.

Revive Plan For San Vicente Dam

The Southern California Rancher, published by Philip S. [illegible]sh, well k[illegible]own in [illegible] the new city administration in San Diego has again taken up the matter of building a huge dam on the San Vicente River between Lakeside and Ramona, and probably the question will again be put up to the voters at an early date. While the voting and the expense are entirely city matters, country residents also are interested in all phases of water development for domestic and irrigation uses, and the people of Lakeside and Ramona, and all intervening and surroundig territory are much interested because the proposed San Vicente Lake will flood much farm land and necessitate the complete changing of the Ramona highway. Several months ago the San Diego voters defeated the dam proposition by a very small margin.

EVENTFUL WEEK TO START ON MONDAY

Quite a week of events starts Monday, September 4. That is Labor Day.

Then on Tuesday school will reopen in Lakeside.

Saturday the 9th will be a day of triplets. First it is the anniversary of Admission Day; second it will be Grape Day at Escondido and, third the first of two rodeos will be held at that city by the Lakeside Rodeo Association.

HOME DEPARTMENT BARBECUE WAS PLEASANT OUTDOOR AFFAIR

(From News Chronicle,)

MOUNTAIN EMPIRE—In the beautiful Sawday ranch setting was held Sunday the annual bar becue of the Mountain Empire farm bureau home department for benefit of the 4-H club.

Although members of the department worked hard to publicize the event, attendance, slightly over 100, was disappointing. Those who did attend, including Assembly woman Jeanette C. Daley, enjoyed the combination of barbecued beef, frijoles and the pleasing warmth of the outdoor sun.

Home department members on the grounds all of whom had a job assigned them, included Mesdames Don Foster, (president), Orlie H. Sawday, Lucia M. Cannon, Isola Hook, Margaret McCain, Ethel Otis, Bertha Hall, Henry Miller, Pearl Shibley, Edna Grand, Olive Culpepper, John Rice, W. H. Richardson, James Fuquay, Ella Caldwell, and Misses Bertes Greenleaf and Dorothy Cannon.

Richardson, Granville Martin, J. H. Graves, James Fuquay, Austin Spurlock George Hoskins, Frank Ferguson, and W. B. Whitcomb.

Whitcomb is First National Bank, San Diego, vice president. He was accompanied by Mrs. Whitcomb and pretty daughter Willene, a U.S.C. senior. Graves is ;a state forestry ranger Richardson, a border patrol officer, and Spurlock a Tecate customs officer. Others named were cattlemen.

Despite slim attendance a profit was made on the affair sufficient to insure sending a 4-H club delegation to the annual convention at Davis next month Members of the club helped out the cause by operating a soft drink and ice cream stand under the watchful eye of Jay O. Culpepper.

Members of the 4-H club on the grounds were Sandy Kemp (president), Jim Fuquay (vice president), Zona Spurlock (secretary-treasurer), Juanita Spurlock, David McCain, Dick Krill, and Eddie Woodrich.

Mrs. Katherine Gill, Former President of Lakeside Woman's Club Dies in Honolulu

Letters were received in Lakeside the first of the week from Mrs. Nellie Haynes, 2085 Ala Wai, Honolulu, telling of the death of her mother Mrs. Katherine Gill. The letter says:

"Mother passed very peacefully on to the Great Beyond and is now at rest and happy. She failed so in this past year that it is a time for rejoicing that she has now the peace she so longed for."

Mrs. Gill had reached the great age of 89. A friend of the family writes the following loving tribute to her memory which will find an echo in the hearts of the many friends here who knew her and to whom she had endeared herself

"Mr. and Mrs. Gill lived for a number of years just across from the L. H. Smith home in Lakeside Farms. After Mr. Gill's death Mrs. Gill went to Honolulu to live with her daughter, Mrs. Haynes, who is the superintendent of a very large school well known for the work it has accomplished in its particular line.

"Mrs. Gill was a past president of the Woman's Club and a most capable and energetic worker in the organization. She was a member of the Red Cross during the World War and gave all possible strength and time to that work.

"Mrs. Gill loved the children of Mr. and Mrs. Smith when she lived here and it is a beautiful thought that two of them (no longer children) visited her during the past year.

"We believe Mrs. Gill was 89 years old and we close this loving tribute to her memory with the words: 'Well done, thou good and faithful servant,'"

LABOR DAY SEPTEMBER 4

Whatever there is of greatness in the United States or indeed in any other country, is due to labor. The laborer is the author of all greatness and wealth. Without labor there would be no government, and no leading class, and nothing to preserve.—U. S. Grant.

TOWNSEND CLUB STARTS WELL

Lakeside's Townsend Club starts well with representative citizens of this town and Bostonia as its first officers. They will soon have the opportunity of seeing and hearing their leader "in person," for Dr. Townsend is to be the principal speaker at Escondido Grape Festival on Saturday, September 9. This, coupled with the fact that the Lakeside Rodeo Association is to stage two shows at the fete, will make the Escondido celebration of unusual interest to Lakesiders. The people of the Hidden Valley are hoping to greet a large delegatio from this section when they put on their long-established and renowned grape festival.

ABOUT CHAIN STORES

No doubt you've heard a lot about chain stores the other day which are interesting enough to pass along. They were sent to us by the In[illegible]ial News Review of Portland, Oregon.

[illegible] has been such a crusade against so-called big business for some years past, that many persons get a warped idea of what is big business and what is little business.

Where does little business stop and big business begin? Should a businese be prohibited by law from growing beyond a certain point? Where should a man's energies be curtailed? Where should service to the public be restricted?

Newspapers recently carried the story of the 24th anniversary of the Safeway Stores—the second largest food retailing organization in the United States. This institution grew from one man's determination to buy foodstuffs direct from suppliers, eliminate in-between commissions and costs, and pass the savings on to consumers.

The founder of Safeway Stores had no subsidies, no special privileges, no outstanding opportunity—he just started a one-horse store based on his ideas of service to the public in the little town of American Falls, Idaho. The rapid expansion of his venture was beyond his own wildest dreams.

A similar history can be recorded for the J. C. Penney Co. which started with one store in one of the most sparsly settled parts of the United States—Kemmerer, Wyoming. Similar instances could be cited for American businesses and industries too numerous to mention. Such businesses could not have grown as they have except as the result of unusual service to the public, for purchases are purely voluntary.

The United States wouldn't be the nation it is today if handicaps had been placed on ambitious individuals, which limited the development of their ideas or enterprises.

So when you talk about "big business" check back a generation and see if it wasn't "little business" to begin with. The same opportunities exist today. Is it the part of wisdom to limit those opportunities by legislation or taxation which curbs the fullest play of individual initiative in seeking to render a better public service?

An exchange says most wives make perfect lecturers; well most husbands need the lectures but whether they heed them is another story.

TOUCHING WORDS

Great words have been heard by Lakeside people from great men. In one day people heard over their radios here the words of His Holiness the Pope, of President Roosevelt, of Prime Minister Chamberlain of England, and others. Impressive all were but most touching were those of "the voice of this Father of the Christian family," as the translator described the Pope. Among other things the Holy Father, in his plea for peace, said:

"We have with us the hearts of mothers which beat with ours, of fathers who would have to abandon their families, the humble who work and know not; the innocent on whom weighs the tremendous menace, the young generous knights of the pure and noble ideals."

BOMB SHELTER ROCK GARDEN

Lakeside Farmer subscribers recently enjoyed reading about rock gardens. Mrs. W. W. Wheatly gave them some useful hints. She didn't mention, however, one thing of which you need not be afraid, and that is that the rock garden will be bombed from the air.

An interesting story about a rock garden comes from London. There they never know when German bombers may favor them with hot shots. So the government has supplied corrugated iron bomb shelters. One householder who has such a shelter in his back yard felt that it was not a thing of beauty. His wife agreed with him. What could they do about it?

Time, the weekly newsmagazine, gives the answer. It says that these back yard esthetes pretti'd up the bomb shelter and converted it into a rock garden. A horseshoe ornaments the entrance, Christmas tree lights are strung inside, and there's a goldfish tank on the roof. Presumably, says Time, it will be taken inside in case of trouble. The magazine takes this as an example of how "Bulldog Spirit can bring a bit of beauty" even out of something as ugly as a corrugated iron bomb shelter.

BACK TO SCHOOL

Superintendent Carender and his fine corps of teachers at the Lakeside Union Elementary School will soon be facing the eager little army of local students. The Labor Day holiday next Monday will mark the end of the vacation; on Tuesday the children will return to their studies. And it is our belief that the majority will do so cheerfully. American schools are happy places for happy pupils

It has well been said that the education of the young is one of democracy's greatest, and gravest, tasks.. Thanks to the high calibre of the Lakeside teachers that task is well carried out here. Why is it spoken of as such a great one? The answer is that the task is great because the proper education of the youth of today is democ[illegible] best assurance that its citizens of tomor[illegible] will be equal to whatever tomorrow's world may demand of them.

And the task is grave because the security of democracy itself depends on how ably youth is trained in the principles of self-reliance, alert citizenship, and fair play, on how well youth is taught the need of wholesome skepticism in an age when false dogmas clamor for his allegiance.

Nor is it any small undertaking that confronts the teachers of 1939. Their responsibilities at all times have been great, but at no time have they been as great as today when authoritarian governments offer their aggressive challenge to republican government. But those alien systems provide a lesson as well as a challenge. People in dictator nations lacked self-reliance. They were unequal to the job confronting them and weakly relinquished the reins of control into the hands of others. In so doing, they became not upright citizens of the state, but its humble serfs.

School bells over California calling youth to class proclaim that democracy again begins the great, unceasing work of providing itself with heroic builders. self-reliant citizens, and vigilant protectors.

TOM TURKEY LOSES ANYWAY

During all the hubbub last week over the proposed change of Thanksgiving Day from November 30 to November 23 did anybody give a thought to the principal feature of the Thanksgiving feast? Tom Turkey gets it in the neck no matter what the date.

Then there's this other thing: we Americans ought to be giving thanks every day that we are not suffering like those poor people in Europe. How thankful many of them would be were they able to be living in the United States.

Rejoice and be thankful every day that you are living in a free country under the glorious Stars and Stripes.

In South Africa natives floor their homes with old newspapers ground to a pulp and mixed with paste.. Just another case of newspapers getting stepped on.

The lamb has no choice when in the jaws of the wolf—it becomes chops.

Miss Conroy, whose grandfather was Irish and married a Peruvian, was, like her own father, born in Lima. She is sometimes called the Joan of Arc of that country.

While the Tacna-Arica dispute was in process of being settled, Miss Conroy, the only woman in her country's delegation, had to remain on the ship on which they had sailed to Arica. No one would rent the delegation a house, and food had to be shipped to them from home.

The WPA programs differ from ordinary programs in having a larger number of women to provide employment for, according to Mrs. Florence S. Kerr, assistant director of the WPA at Washington. These women are economic heads of families, have others dependent on them with no men to support the families.

"Of the 370,000 women in our professional and service projects," Mrs. Kerr said recently, "about 283,000 are heads of households with dependent children. What good would it do to take their work away from these women and return them to direct relief? Many are proud of the work they are doing for the Government."

The Country Garden

By Margaret Tipton Wheatly
Chairman, Garden Section
Lakeside Woman's Club.

APPROACHING AUTUMN

Today ushers in September; an important month, indeed, both for the garden and the family. Children will not be at home for lunch, and perhaps that will give more time for gardening plans.

While some of our warmest weather often comes in September the heartening thought that rain is not too far distant gives us courage to do our watering with more enthusiasm than we often display at the beginning of the season. We are on the "home stretch" so to speak and as a result may not mind too much, even, watering seed beds, when we know it will make the difference between success and failure of next spring's garden.

SEASONAL WORK

With approaching autumn work in the garden seems to come with a rush, so much so that if we do not organize the seasonal work we are apt to leave much until the rains which often is too late.

There is no better time than now to renew or make a new planting of ferns. Observations of the natural habitat of ferns will enable us to plant them well. If we approximate these growing conditions we are sure of success. Lots of humus in the soil is essential to good ferns. Try planting some bulbs in among the ferns for variety and color.

FALL CLEANING

September is truly the month to "house clean" the garden. Most of the bulb foliage is dry enough to be raked up, and the bulbs which are to be separated and replanted should have thorough inspection to make sure they are not diseased.

This is about the latest time fresias may be planted. The amaryllis should be separated and replanted now.

PLANT YOUR SWEET PEA SEED NOW!

During this month of reorganizing the garden work it may come to us that if we had more shade in most of our gardens, more trailing ground covers and prostrate growing things in our landscaping it would greatly facilitate keeping the garden moist in the summer drought.

This month is an ideal time to plan for these. Fall planted shrubs gain almost an entire years growth over those planted in the spring. Even during the coldest weather the newly planted trees and other plants are making root growth which will fit them for their struggle with the summer heat next year

GARDEN EXPERIENCE

No amount of theory will take the place of actual experience with a certain piece of ground. After spending considerable money, much time, and a great deal of labor trying to make a garden we come to know pretty well what will stand the stress of summer heat upon our own dry hillside.

Of course there are always new and delightful--sounding plants listed in the latest addition of our favorite nursery catalogue, to intrigue us. A new and very prostrate Grevillea called obtusifolia covers, in time, a space of ground 6 feet square, and bearing in the summer cheerful small red flowers. A ground cover par-excellent!

In thinking of prostrate shrubs and other ground covers we should keep in mind the berry bearing shrub. Both the pyracantha and catoneaster are excellently suited to our back-country climate. The soft gray foliage of the latter is most pleasing in the garden.

EMPLOYMENT BOARD HAS NEW NAME

Hereafter the Unemployment Reserves Commission of California will be known as the "California Employment Commission."

The provisions of a bill signed by Governor Olson effective September 19, make this change mandatory. The new name it was felt by the Commission members, will give the public a more comprehensive picture of the work the Commission was intended to accomplish.

This Week in Washington

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug 28:

The American people do not want to be involved again in a European war Once was enough, in fact more than enough. We joined in the "war to end war" and see what came of it. If they must fight "over there" they should be told right now that the United States is going to keep out of it.

Those are the views of "the man in the streets" from Atlantic to Pacific.

One Senator recently stated that undoubtedly there has been propaganda in this country to create war sentiment and prepare the United States for possibly entry into a European war. But, he pointed out, the issue of peace or war lies with Congress and, he added, it ought to be made abundantly plain that Congress does not propose to carry the country into war. Senator George said:

"The Congress of the United States and the American people have no idea of again engaging in a foreign war."

Will Hoover Be Candidate?

To try to answer that question inquiring reporters from Washington have been to California to see Mr. Hoover at his home in Palo Alto. They have come back with reports indicating that they believe the former President to be receptive but not so far an active candidate.

The impression seems to be that he definitely will take an active hand in pre-convention politics, at any rate, and unless the probable nominee is someone of whom he approves, he may take advantage of his growth in personal popularity in the past seven years to throw his own hat into the ring.

DOES NOT WANT TO RUN

Coming from one observer who has had exceptional opportunities to talk with the former President on the 1940 race, the belief is put forth that he does not want to run or serve again, though he is physically active and mentally fit as most men much younger than his own 65 years.

This same observer came back from Palo Alto with the belief that Mr. Hoover is, to put it mildly, not enthusiastic over Senator Vandenberg of Michigan as the party's choice for the head of the ticket; that he likes and admires Thomas E. Dewey of New York very much indeed and wishes he were a few years older and had a record of successful administration as an executive behind him; and that he has a great deal of respect for the ability of Senator Taft of Ohio, coupled with the belief that he would command the respect of the country at large once he got into the campaign.

HOOVER'S POSITION

In short, the nearest to "feed-box information" about the former President's position in respect of 1940 is that he would consider a ticket headed by Senator Taft, with District Attorney Dewey as his running mate, as about the best and most popular ticket the Republicans have to offer, and that while he would somewhat reluctantly consent to be drafted if such a ticket cannot be nominated, Mr. Hoover doesn't want the job of being President again. He knows too much about its difficulties.

On the Democratic side there are only two active and avowed Presidential candidates so far, and one of them will withdraw from the race if the President chooses to run for a third term. With the field clear for him, however, Paul McNutt is regarded by Washington observers and reported by scouts who have been scouring the mid-West, as certain to have the solid Indiana delegation in the Democratic National Convention, and a very good chance of forming a bloc of delegates taking in all the states east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio.

Under the old two-thirds rule of Democratic conventions, which was abrogated in 1936, Washington believes that Vice-President Garner could build and hold a block of delegates sufficiently large to beat McNutt. But Democratic nominations now are made by a majority of the delegates instead of two-thirds, a fact which works to the advantage of Mr. Roosevelt or of any candidate he favors, such as Mr. McNutt, and to the disadvantage of Mr. Garner.

Guy O. Glazier of The Trading Post La Mesa has just secured two interesting old guns. A long gun carried by a Confederate Soldier has compartments in stock for carrying a lunch or extra amunition. The other a short gun, five shot cap and ball revolver came from the Union Army, perhaps they shot at each other, who knows? A valuable addition to the growing Free Museum at the La Mesa Trading Post.

Boy Scout Day at Cavalcade

Cavalcade of the Golden West will be the scene of the Grand Opening Ceremonies for Boy Scout Day (August) at the Golden Gate International Exposition when the Boy Scouts of America utilize the largest stage in the world to begin a full day of Scouting activities. Shown above is Rusty Bishop, Cavalcade actor, showing off a span of oxen to Scout Burrill Loving of San Francisco Troop 234. The California Post 234 sent its American Legion Boy Scout Troop to inspect the Cavalcade set in preparation for the big day on Treasure Island.

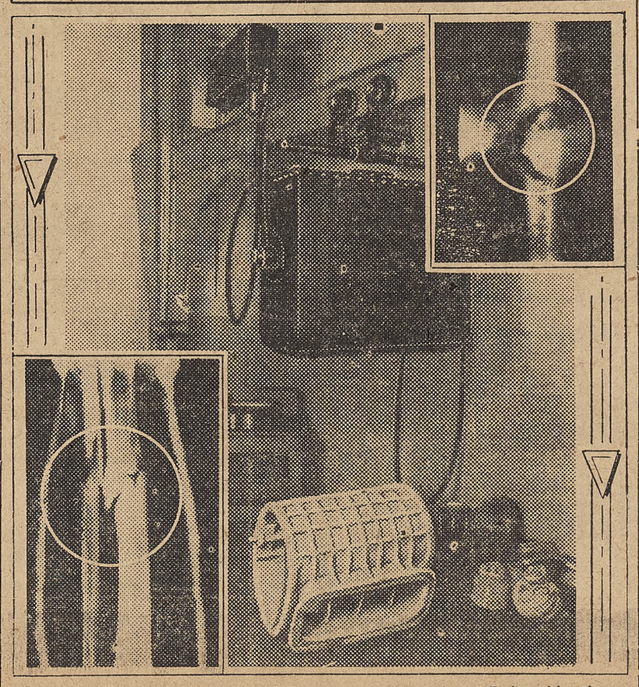
Hound's Best Friend

The raccoon is a 100 percent American. A coonskin cap was the badge of the frontiersman in the days of Daniel Boone. The raccoon is found from Canada to Panama, never far from water, is a good fisherman, and hunter of frogs and crayfish, and is in the habit of washing almost everything he eats. Like the red fox, the raccoon has inspired the development of a breed of hound, and coon dog trials are exciting sport for hundreds of organized clubs. Also the raccoon is an important source of fur. Fred Everett painted the raccoon for the 1939 Wildlife Week poster stamps, distributed by the National Wildlife Federation.

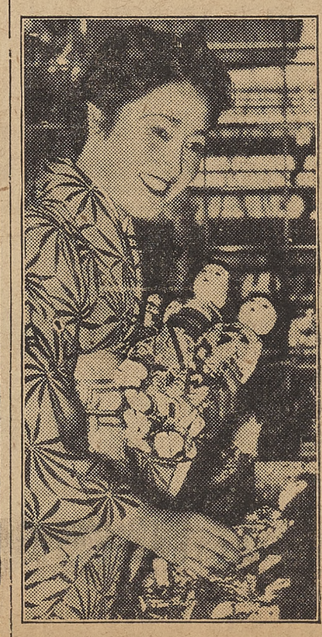
X-Ray Inspection of Metals Prevents Mishaps, Saving Lives and Money



Giant 200,000-volt industrial X-Ray machine used by Bohn Aluminum Company, photographing an aluminum casting. (Upper right) Flaws in a casting as disclosed by the X-Ray Machine. (Lower left) Break in a human leg bone shown by an X-Ray photograph.

THE X-Ray machine, so valuable in surgery, now saves life and property in another way. Industry is using it to inspect mechanical parts to locate flaws in vital members to prevent failures while in service. The U. S. Government insists on X-Ray inspection of important airplane parts such as bearings. The Bohn Aluminum and Brass Corporation now submit aluminum cylinder heads, bearings and other castings to X-Ray inspection to eliminate defects. In this way manufacturing costs are reduced by detecting flaws before expensive machine work is undertaken and lives and valuable property saved by eliminating breakdowns resulting from such imperfections. Truly the industrial X-Ray machine has come to be an invaluable aid to industry just as it has been to the medical profession!

S. F. Fair Dolls



Clad in tiny kimonos, hundreds of Japanese dolls are displayed at the Japan Pavilion at the Golden Gate International Exposition on Treasure Island. Pretty Miss Akiko Yamamato is seen arranging a group of them to be viewed by thousands of World's Fair visitors.

Fair Statuary

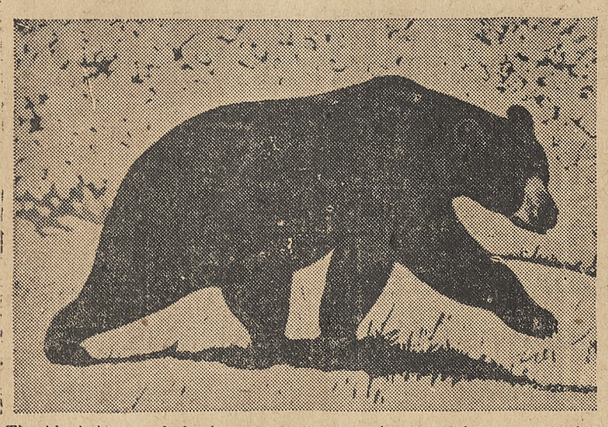
White Magic at S. F. Fair

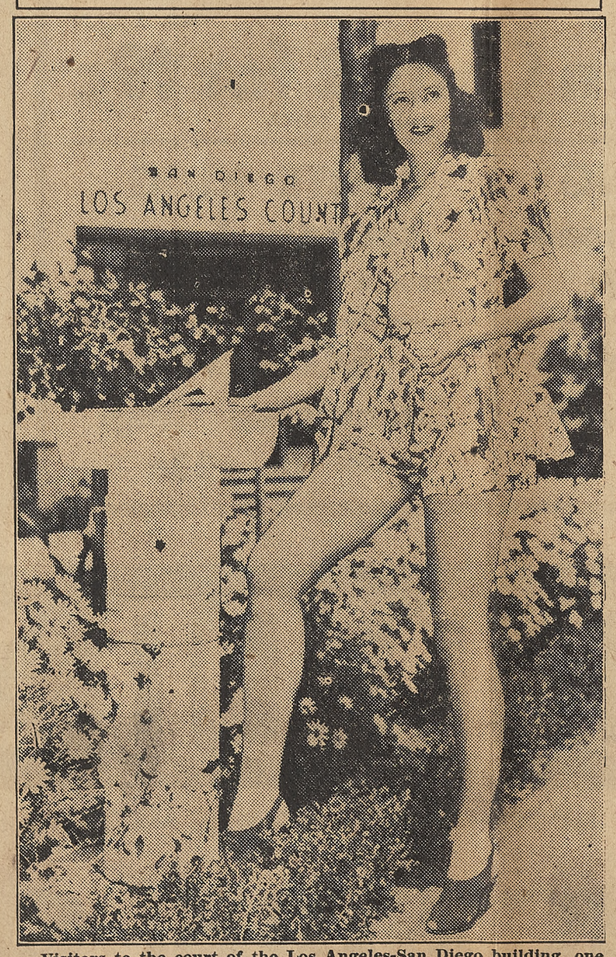
The sorcery of science holds pretty Patsy Sheldon suspended in midair in General Electric's "House of Magic," at the Golden Gate International Exposition. The bowl floats in the air without visible support of any kind — a little of the magic of photography added Patsy to the load and you see the above result. The "magic" bowl is but one of scores of modern miracles demonstrated in the exhibit.

Burly, But Not So Brave



The black bear and the brown or cinnamon bear are the same species, just as black and gray squirrels are the same. Young bears are born in mid-winter while the mother is asleep in her den, and are smaller than kittens. Twins are common, sometimes triplets and very seldom four cubs in a family. Although a full-grown black bear weighs as much as 500 pounds, in the wild state the black bear is very timid. When they become tame, begging for food in National Parks, they are sometimes a problem. A bear's diet ranges from fish to berries, from ants to honey. No animal, except man, has such diversified taste for food. The black bear was painted for the 1939 Wildlife Week poster stamps by Lynn Bogue Hunt.

"Visiting Time"



Visitors to the court of the Los Angeles-San Diego building, one of the California Commission group at the Golden Gate International Exposition, never worry about the time. There's too much to see.

In case they should, there's a good old fashioned sun dial on duty. Pictured above is Clono Price, lovely actress from the Cavalcade of the Golden West Show, checking up on the time with a watch.

The Los Angeles-San Diego building displays some of the most outstanding exhibits on Treasure Island.

EASY TO MAKE

Pattern 8328 - A frilly pinafore, a tailored pinafore, and a little shirred tie-around, can be made, in short order, with 8328.

You'll enjoy having a set or so for your own use, during the summer, when people are always driving up at dinner-time, and they make delightful little gifts for the brides-to-be on your list.

Both the pinafores are becoming slim-waisted, and what is more important, they are cut so that they won't slide maddeningly off your shoulders when your hands are in the biscuit dough.

Make this of batiste, dimity, percale or linen.

Pattern 8532 - This practical design (8532) combines two of the best styles for growing girls—the bolero and the jumper frock, and both are unusually pretty.

The jumper has a nice slim girdle effect, a rippling skirt. and straps put on close to the neck so they'll stay put comfortably and securely.

The blouse is tailored, with puff sleeves and a tailored collar worn outside the straight, brief, sleeveless bolero.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

This passage from Genesis, "God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him," is the Golden Text in the Lesson-Sermon on "Man" on Sunday in all Churches of Christ, Scientist.

One of the Bible selections in the Lesson-Sermon presents these verses from the Psalms: "The LORD is the portion of mine inheritance and of my cup: thou maintainest my lot. The lines are fallen unto me in pleasant places; yea, I have a goodly heritage. . . . As for me, I will behold thy face in righteousness: I shall be satisfied, when I awake, with thy likeness." This verse from I John is also included: "Beloved, now are we the sons of God, and it doth not yet appear what we shall be: but we know that, when he shall appear, we shall be like him; for we shall see him as he is."

The Lesson-Sermon includes also these statements from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Spirit and its formations are the only realities of being. . . . When we learn the way in Christian Science and recognize man's spiritual being, we shall behold and understand God's creation,—all the glories of earth and heaven and man."

F. H. A. EXPERT EXPLAINS POLICY OF ADMINISTRATION

According to W. G. Bingham of the Southern California District Federal Housing Administration, the average would-be home owner is somewhat confused when he shops around for the first time looking for a home.

"Each phase of a home ownership transaction requires expert technical knowledge and it is not probable that one person can meet all the requirements," he said.

"This is where the Federal Housing Administration performs its best service to the home buyer or builder. Its valuators check the neighborhood, its architectral inspectors check the plans and specifications and the building, in the event of one to be erected, as it is being constructed. Its mortgage risk examiner analyzes the entire transaction in relation to the income of the borrower and decides whether it is a good risk for both lender and borrower, as well as the FHA.

"When a home ownership transaction has the approval of the Federal Housing Administration the home owner may rest assured that everything to make that house structurally sound and knowledge that it is located properly, that there is reasonable assurance that the borrower will eventually own that home free and clear of debt has been carefully considered."
